Lucien Greene Sinks To Final Rest

Lucien B. Greene, aged 74 years, after an illness extending through many months, at 8:00 o'clock last night closed his eyes to all that is earthly and the spirit of this just man, redeemed by faith in Him, the savior of the world, entered on rest.

He is survived by his wife who was Miss Sallie, daughter of the late Joe Johnson; one daughter, Mrs. Walter Bridges, and four sons, Judge Samuel L. and L. D. of Louisville, and Keller and Ralph of this city. Funeral services will be conducted at the grave in Mchelpah cemetery Friday afternoon at 2:30 by Rev. Clyde Darsie.

As a citizen Mr. Greene was held in the highest regard. A gentleman of the old school he met all men in justness, observing in exactness the principle taught in the golden rule, and no man can say of him anything but to his credit as a Christian gentleman. For many years he had been a member of the local Christian church, was one of its wisest official counselors and elders.

As husband and father he attained as near to the perfect as it is possible for man to do. Review the lives of the honored and the blest and none will possess stars of more brightness, or gems of greater value.

His was a life worthy to be followed and this verse is the man as he has fallen—

"Asleep in Jesus, peaceful rest,
Whose waking is supremely blest!
No fear, no woe, shall dim that hour
That manifests the Savior's power."

Peace to the ashes of this just man, and rest to his soul.

Killed in Accident—Car Strikes Auto

Mrs. Henry Simpson, wife of a well known business man of Lexington, while driving her automobile for the first time, was run into by an interurban car on the Versailles road and instantly killed. Mrs. Simpson's head was crushed and she was hurled through the wind shield and against the stone fence surrounding the farm in front of which the accident occurred.

Examining Trial

The examining trial of Policeman Rufus Stockdale who shot and killed John Fay in this city Tuesday, will be held Friday morning before County Judge E. W. Senff.

More Insisting

We have words coming from many sources urging us to continue in our efforts to create a sentiment so strong that the people who have pride and interests will form a company that will raise sufficient money to construct a modern hotel here that would be able to care for the traveling public. How often have we heard it said: "You have a live people and are of the most aggressive business points in the South, and yet you are without a hotel building that can care for public demands."

It is true Mt. Sterling is growing, it is true her business men are prosperous, it is true that our court day cattle market has become the greatest in the world, it is true our tobacco interests are enormous, and it is also true that these interests are represented by many, that they would spend more money here, and that this exchange of money would put larger volumes of money in circulation and in this way give profit to all. Would a hotel of the size to accommodate the traveling public pay? We think this has been demonstrated in former articles on this subject and we are here to say this is the time when a united effort should make the hotel project possible. Why not the Chamber of Commerce take this matter up?

Back Broken

While at work on a tobacco barn on the farm of Mrs. R. G. Stoner, near Ewington, Tuesday, Charles Reed fell from the top of the building to the ground, striking cross timbers and breaking his back. He is now paralyzed and has been removed to a Lexington hospital for treatment. The accident is serious, and it is feared will prove fatal.

To Teach at Hamilton

Miss Sally Clay Eubank, of near Thomson Station, well known and popular in this city, has accepted a position as instructor in the preparatory department at Hamilton College, Lexington, and will begin her duties next week. Miss Eubank is a graduate of the County High School, and an honor graduate of Bethany College.

Rodney Haggard In Lexington Jail

Rodney Haggard, of Winchester, under indictment in the Clark Circuit Court for the murder of Ben Good, was taken to Lexington yesterday to await trial in Winchester on Sept. 22nd.

Haggard is also the defendant in a divorce suit in which his wife asks for $20,000 alimony. Mrs. Haggard is the daughter of J. Mullins, the Clark county jailer, and for that reason it was decided to take Haggard to the Lexington jail.

Jack Johnson Ordered to Pen

Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, was sentenced to one year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $1,000 Tuesday by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter for violation of the Mann act.

The sentence reaffirmed that passed on Johnson in 1913 when he was convicted of transporting a white girl from Pittsburgh to Chicago for immoral purposes. Johnson later fled to Europe, forfeiting his $30,000 bonds, and from then until a few weeks ago when he surrendered on the Lower California border, he was a fugitive from justice.

JUDGE LYMAN CHALKLEY ADDRESSES WOMEN'S CLUBS

Judge Lyman T. Chalkley, of the University of Kentucky, Lexington, addressed a large audience of women at the Country Women's Club rooms yesterday afternoon. His lecture on "Citizenship" was highly interesting and instructive and was well received. Judge Chalkley was introduced by the Hon. John G. Winn in whose home he was a guest while in Mt. Sterling. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Country Women's Club with the members of the other clubs of the city as special guests.

Officer Hunt Resigns

Officer Matt Hunt, of the City Police force has resigned his position after being in the city's service for only six weeks. It is not known yet who will succeed Mr. Hunt on the force.

Two Dead—Two Injured in Accident

John Speigel, aged 42, and William W. Bourne, aged 40, Fayette county farmers, are dead as the result of injuries received when an incoming interurban car from Nicholasville struck a Ford sedan in which they were passengers, at Station No. 3 on the Nicholasville pike about 6:15 o'clock Tuesday night.

Speigel died on the way to the hospital and Bourne died about 9:15 o'clock at the hospital.

Lake Gregg, aged 38, a farmer, living near the scene of the accident and driver of the machine, was cut about the head and left side. He was sent home after his wounds had been treated at the hospital. James Gregg, his 10-year-old son, escaped with a few slight scratches.

The men were coming to town from Gregg's farm, three miles out on the Nicholasville pike, where they had been cutting tobacco. Greggs says he saw the interurban car coming when the whistle was sounded while sixty yards from the crossing but he could not stop his machine. The interurban struck the sedan square on the side, witnesses say, and knocked it fifty feet or more where it struck an electric light pole, breaking it off about five feet above the ground. The machine was completely demolished, parts of it being scattered from the crossing to the spot where it landed.

The Gregg boy was riding in the front seat with his father and says he was thrown through the top of the car when the interurban struck it. The escape from death of Gregg and his son is considered miraculous.

Speigel and Bourne both sustained fractured skulls and internal injuries. They were taken to the hospital in a truck.

Clay Taylor, motorman on the interurban car, says he sounded his whistle 400 yards from the crossing and that he supposed the automobile was going to stop until it pulled across the track square in front of the interurban.

The accident occurred directly in front of Gregg's home as he pulled off the pike into the private driveway leading across the interurban tracks to his home.

"It surely pays to advertise in your paper," said a prominent club woman of this city to us yesterday. Please discontinue the ad until I have a chance to investigate these offers."

What Next?

It has been published in the daily press that charges are being made that do not meet with successful contradiction that the G. O. P. is raising a fund much larger than formerly charged by Gov. James M. Cox, Democratic Presidential candidate. Some have gone so far as to say double that amount will be raised. That a desperate effort may be made to purchase the suffrage of the people. These charges may be true, but we have not reached the point where we can believe the Presidency of the United States is purchasable. Nor can we believe the honest constituency of the Republican party would stand for any such thing. We do believe Senator Harding is an honest man and would not ride into the Presidency on such methods, that he would step aside before he would do it.

War Mothers to Meet

The second annual convention of the Kentucky Chapter of American War Mothers will be held at the Seelbach Hotel in Louisville, October the first. The National War Mother, Mrs. Alice M. French, of Indianapolis, with other national officers, will be in attendance and the occasion promises to be a most interesting one. The members of the Montgomery County Chapter are cordially invited to attend. Those expecting to attend will make hotel reservations at once.

Carolina Growers To Organize

Telegrams received from Greenville, North Carolina tobacco markets show that the prices have been cut all to pieces, and 5,000 growers held a mass meeting and passed resolutions denouncing the factories for their refusal to pay good prices, and also decided to organize in self-defense. The reports state that top prices of twenty to twenty-five cents were offered against those of fifty cents and above last season. It looks like it is war to the knife.

Robbing Bee Trees Gives Valued Lesson

Bobby and Betty were up before the dawn this bright Saturday morning, happy as only childhood can be at the arrival of a long anticipated holiday.

Mrs. Blake was to take them to the country to spend the week-end with Henry and Hurley. So they were washed and dressed and ready without any admonishings from their mother, and did not have to run to catch the train, as they arrived at the depot fully a half hour before train time.

"Better to be an hour early than a minute late," their mother had always told them. "It half spoils a holiday to be hurrying and flustered for fear you'll miss the train."

So everybody was cool, comfortable and enjoying life when the train pulled out of the depot. Each got a much-coveted seat by the window, and enjoyed the flying trees and telegraph poles, the scampering horses and cows, and the scurrying pigs and chickens, as the train thundered by the pretty farms.

Henry and Hurley were at the depot with the spring wagon awaiting them, and, their cordial greetings being soon over, they hastened to clamber into the wagon and he on their way to the farm.

A royal country dinner was on the table when they pulled up at the dooryard gate—the thick slices of country ham, mashed potatoes and ham gravy, beans, tomatoes, big fat hot biscuits and honey and great goblets of rich milk.

"We're going to hunt bee trees right after dinner," said Henry to his guests.

"Bee trees? What kind 'are they?'" said Betty.

"I never heard of them!" said Bobby.

"Why, they are the trees where wild bees make their honey," said Henry and Hurley together.

"The bees put their honey there

FARMERS IN GOOD SHAPE

While the farmers in Missouri and Kentucky who raised wheat in 1920, obtained a yield somewhat less than the 10-year average, they more than made up for this on corn, which is considerably above the average.

In the latest monthly statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, it is stated that the wheat yield for Missouri this year is 12.5 bushels per acre as compared with 14.3 for the 10-year average. The Kentucky wheat yield this year is 10.2 per acre as compared with 12.2 for the 10-year average.

Missouri's corn yield this year is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at 200,159,000, or 84 per cent. while the average for 10 years is 73 per cent. Arkansas' corn estimate is 59,232,000 bushels, 86 per cent for the 10-year average. Kentucky's yield is even greater—90 per cent as against 80 per cent for the 10-year average, with an estimated yield of 96,941,000 for this year.

With both wheat and corn bringing good prices, the farmers of these three states are preparing to make larger investments than ever in Liberty Bonds, which are selling considerably below par now, and to increase their holdings of Treasury Savings Certificates.

Trouble with some folks is that they all want to be drivers of the prosperity wagon, and mighty few the laborers to load it.

and when we find them we rob the tree; that is, take the honey. Sometimes we get forty or fifty or even a hundred pounds from one tree."

"Gracious, it pays to rob them, doesn't it?" asked Betty. "Do you spend much time hunting them?"

"No, indeed," laughed the boys. "We only hunt on holidays. Week-days we work just as you do in the city, at our regular work. Father says hunting bees and hunting ginseng and blood-root and such is a lazy man's work and no part of a regular business-like farming. We only do it on our loafing days or holidays. It would not pay to waste valuable time that way. But today we have a holiday to spend with you and I found where the bees water when I went after the cows yesterday, so I concluded it would be interesting to you to help me find the tree."

"It surely would," said Bobby, "but I don't understand about the ginseng or blood-root either—we don't know what you mean by that, or what the bees' watering place has to do with the bee either."

"I'll tell you about the wild roots and things like that some other time," returned Henry. "It is the bees we are going after now. If you knew where the bees water you can go there and watch until you see some of them come for a drink. Then when he flies away watch the direction that he takes. A bee always flies back in a perfectly straight line. Just follow him in a straight line and you'll come to his tree sooner or later."

"Well, if that isn't funny!" ejaculated Betty.

"You've often heard of a bee-line, haven't you?" asked her mother.

"Why, yes, mother; but I never knew what it meant."

"A bee line is a straight line, and a straight line, as you learned from your geometry, is the shortest distance between two points. So the bee takes the shortest cut home. I've been trying to teach you children to take a bee line to success in life. You see now what the bee-line to success in life is?"

"Another of your riddles, mother? I guess I'll give it up," said Bobby.

"O. no, Bobby, the answer to mother's riddles are easy once you get her system," laughed Betty. "The answer to mother's riddles are always Thrift."

"Industry, honesty and Thrift make the bee-line to success," said Mrs. Blake. Your starting point is working to earn your first Thrift Stamp; then follow that straight line and it will lead you directly to the bee tree of life, useful citizenship, independence, and the respect of the community."

"My," said Hurley, "I never knew there was so much wisdom in bees. Let's be after them, and we'll sell the honey and start Thrift Cards too!"

"That would be fine, boys," said Mrs. Blake. "You would never regret it."

HENRY R. PREWITT, Guardian

DIED AT HANDS OF TRAITOR

Savior of Paris, It is Said, Was Killed by Officer in Pay of the Huns.

A hitherto unpublished story of the great war has been brought to this city by a prominent clubman, recently returned. General Gallieni of the French army, the man who rushed troops from Paris in taxicabs to stem the flood at the first battle of the Marne, was reported to have died during the war.

What is said to be the true story of his death is told by the clubman. The general went up to a certain sector and, in looking over the plans of defense, found that they were so arranged that the Germans could easily break through. In fact, if they had been planned by a German officer they could not have been more favorable for the Huns.

Suspecting treachery, he summoned the officer who had made the plans to his presence and accused him of being a traitor, laid his pistol on the table and told him that the only thing left for him to do was to shoot himself. Then, as he turned his back and walked out of the room, the accused officer picked up the pistol and shot him in the back. The general died a few days afterward.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FAMOUS FICTION WRITER.

Said Sherlock Holmes in the midst of his most valuable detective cases which baffled him in their intricacy, but to which he applied his dictum, "Always put your finger on the most unlikely person!" The eminent American writer of detective stories, Anna Katherine Green (Mrs. Rohlf), was born in 1846. She was educated at Ripley Female college. It would be interesting as a study in heredity to trace why her gifted powers turned in the direction they did. It is not to be doubted that she built upon the sure proverb, "In every family there is a black sheep." Said Talleyrand, "Treat every friend as if he might become one day your enemy, and every enemy as if he might become your friend." Mrs. Rohlf's most famous book, "The Leavenworth Case," was dramatized by herself in 1892.—Chicago Journal.

CHINA IN MARKET FOR HATS.

The manufacture of hats in China is expected to become an important industry. With the cutting of the queue, foreign hats displaced the native styles. More than 2,000,000 rush hats are exported each year from Ningpo to the United States. A hat of good quality is being made in Szechwan of palm-leaf fiber. The extensive manufacture of straw braid in Shantung will lead to the manufacture of straw hats in that section.

2,000 NEWSPAPERS

FORCED TO SUSPEND

Leigh Harris, publisher of the Henderson Gleaner, has been to Chicago to consult with other publishers who, like himself, are "up against it" for print paper, and this is what he says:

"Mr. Carpenter," we said, "what is your advice about print paper. Our mill is behind on its contract tonnage. Should we go on the 'spot' market?"

"GET PAPER."

"Do you mean to get paper at present prices?"

"GET PAPER."

"When will the print paper situation get better?"

"GET PAPER."

The raven had nothing on Willard

E. Carpenter when it came to answering our questions at the Chicago conference.

Mr. Carpenter is the national chairman of print paper distribution. He gets big papers to release tonnage for little papers to try to keep them in existence.

Mr. Carpenter left us to talk with the manager of the Hearst papers. We talked with him again at the Chicago Athletic Club at dinner. He said:

"They've got Hearst in a tight place. He is on the market for all the print paper he can get at 12 1-2 cents a pound."

When you realize that Hearst and other publishers were getting paper two years ago for two cents a pound you will realize what the newspapers of the country are up against.

The International Paper Company has cut its customers to 80 per cent of last year's tonnage.

Mr. Carpenter said that 2,000 newspapers had been forced out of business by price and shortage and 2,000 more will go before the situation is relieved.

Jason Rogers of the New York Globe, is organizing capital to build paper mills, but it takes two years and three million dollars to build the smallest kind of mill.

The Gleaner man acted upon the advice of Mr. Carpenter and "GOT PAPER," $6,000 for a car for immediate delivery. It used to be $800 a car. The increased expense for Henderson will be $25,000, if the Gleaner has to continue on the spot market.

The result of this has been a unanimous decision upon the part of papers to raise subscription rates.

Also to raise advertising rates. Mr. Carpenter informed us that 35 cents an inch is recognized as the lowest rate that any paper can run advertising. He owns several papers—One at Lincoln, Ill., with 2500 circulation. He has already put the 35 cents an inch rate into effect.

There is no hope for relief by Congress. The Underwood bill might help but Colby gave Mr. Wilson a hum steer and Wilson killed the bill with a pocket veto.

Bought friendship is never of real worth, regardless of the bargain-counter price paid.

GAME LAWS TOTAL FAILURES

In some states, for a dollar or two, the state issues licenses which in effect permits the hunter to overrun the farmer's lands. In such states the farmer first drives the game birds away if he can. He is glad if rats, owls and other vermin will do it for him.

In other states the farmer posts his land against hunters, but often that fails him. Under our present game laws, which are absolutely dismal failures so far as perpetuating game is concerned, the farmer can't kill the game on his farm and sell it for food, nor can he breed it for food purposes. Think of that in this civilized age; prohibition against the production of food.

The fatal point is that the state assumes ownership of game. And this assumption is causing our game to gradually disappear.

Wake up! Fill our woods and fields and wild places again with pheasants, grouse, quail, and prairie chickens.

Make the land owner the owner of the game on it. Permit him and his family to trap, breed and raise the birds as he raises poultry, and let him freely sell them as food. Today vermin and winter storms kill more birds than all the hunters. The farmer, finding game birds highly profitable, will destroy the vermin and feed the birds in winter when necessary.

In a few years, protected birds that are at liberty will fly off and multiply in every corner of the land.

A STORY OF FARM PROGRESS

In the big cities they still think it is smart to have their ancient "rube" and "haysseed" jokes.

It beats all how provincial and narrow people are when they are shut up in the canyons and the limits of big towns. They get so that they don't know how the world progresses.

A week in the rural towns and on the farms would open the eyes of the fellow who still jokes, as his father and grandfather did, about rubes. What is more up-to-date anywhere than the following:

A Kansas farmer, driving along a country road the other day in his Big Si automobile, turned a corner too sharply and went into a ditch. Carried into the nearby farm house, a farm hand who was a soldier in France, gave him first aid and found that he needed skillful surgical attention at once. Taking down the farm house phone, the first-aid called up a noted surgeon in Kansas City, 75 miles away. In ten minutes the doctor was aboard an airplane and in less than an hour he was at the injured man's side. An hour later, the operation was over and the patient was comfortably resting.

Thus, in less than three hours after the event, the life of an injured man had been saved on the scene of accident far back in the country, by a skillful physician from a great city many miles away.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMENTS

The Publicity Committee at a meeting this week elected Mr. L. H. Hombs as Chairman and have been figuring all week on the "welcome" signs for the roads leading into Mt. Sterling. This is a good, live committee, with a good live Chairman and now that they have started we expect lots of big things from them.

Secretary Sharp attended the meeting at Louisville this week at which was organized the Association of Commercial Secretaries of the State of Kentucky. Mr. Sharp was placed on the Executive Committee, quite a compliment, but we can assure this body of "live wires" that they will find a worker in this young man they have so honored.

EVERYBODY HATES A KNOCKER: THEY'RE NOT EVEN USING THEM ON FRONT DOORS ANY MORE.

Don't forget the meeting at the Country Women's Club next Wednesday. If you have a ticket remember it is no good excepting for that day only; if you haven't gotten one yet then please see Treasurer Keller and get yours—and do it now.

The committee of the Republican Ninth Congressional District is scheduled to meet in this city next Wednesday, the 22nd—the day of our luncheon-meeting. Let's have a full attendance and show these friends from our neighboring counties what a live bunch we have here in this "Blue Grass-Mountain" city. Do YOUR part.

We want every firm and every live, wideawake business man in the city and county to become a member of our organization—if you are not a member, see President Hoffman or Secretary Sharp and join at once so that you can attend the very important meeting on the 22nd.

CAROLINA TOBACCO GROWERS TO ORGANIZE

It is now apparent that those interested in the tobacco interests of the United States are determined on a thorough organization. The best informed speakers are being engaged and the matter of organization in order to protection of the tobacco interests as against the few who take the growers products at their own price, manufacture and then name what is commonly termed an exorbitant price to the consumers, thereby making these few multimillionaires richer while the producer becomes the poorer with each passing year. It has been said these trusts have made overtures to foreign nations to the effect that they will care for their enormous war debts in consideration of exclusive tobacco privileges in this country. This charge has not been denied and we therefore accept it as a fact. Now, if this be true what does it mean less than this: They will continue to force the tobacco growers and the consumer to do their bidding. The growers are beginning to realize this state of affairs and with a thorough organization will become their own bosses. T. B. Hill, President of the local organization, has been engaged as one of the speakers and organizers in the Carolinas where his labors will be for the effecting of a perfect organization. In a former article we said, there was a time when it was folly for the farmer to go up against the money powers, but conditions have changed as will be verified by the demands of this organization just begun, and which will soon be in an irresistible operative power.

A princess who is wearing a tin pie plate hanging from each ear will turn her nose up at other princesses who are merely wearing glass saucers as ear pendants.

There are other mysteries. But the greatest mystery of all is an empty gun always happening to be loaded.

MAINE ELECTION

Much ado is being made by one-gallows politicians over the election in Maine going Republican by an increased majority. We must remember it has been conceded and that statistics prove there are as many women in the State as there are men, that it is also conceded Maine is Republican with only men voting by about 35,000 majority under normal conditions. Now as men vote so will their wives and daughters. With these facts it is easy to see that the State of Maine would receive the majority that she did and that this vote does not forecast anything alarming to Democratic success in the November election.

The Cumberland, the world's big battle amongst the great pacers, will be decided at LEXINGTON Wednesday, Oct. 5. Of those eligible to start fourteen are winners this season. Amongst them are those wonderful stake mares, Margaret Dillon, "the pride of New England," Princess Mary, the wonder from Canada, and the consistent Juno, that will be backed by the men from Ohio and Pennsylvania. These mares have not met this year and a big crowd is expected to see the race.

DURABILITY

"Made to Endure and Make Starting Sure"

The rugged construction of the Cooper Battery has given it those long enduring qualities which are so necessary to the Storage Battery, if the service it renders is to be efficient and of long duration. Two distinctive features that give the Cooper Battery durability are the heavily plated plates, with an active material of special composition, and the Port Orford Cedar Separator.

The Plate

What the motor is to the Automobile, the plate is to the battery—its heart. Long life and efficient service depend to a greater degree upon the plate than any other part of the battery.

Cooper engineers have designed the plate of this battery (heavily plated with an active material of special composition) to meet the unusual requirements of the electrical system of your car. This plate is your assurance of electrical energy that is ever ready, efficient and longer lasting.

The Port Orford Separator

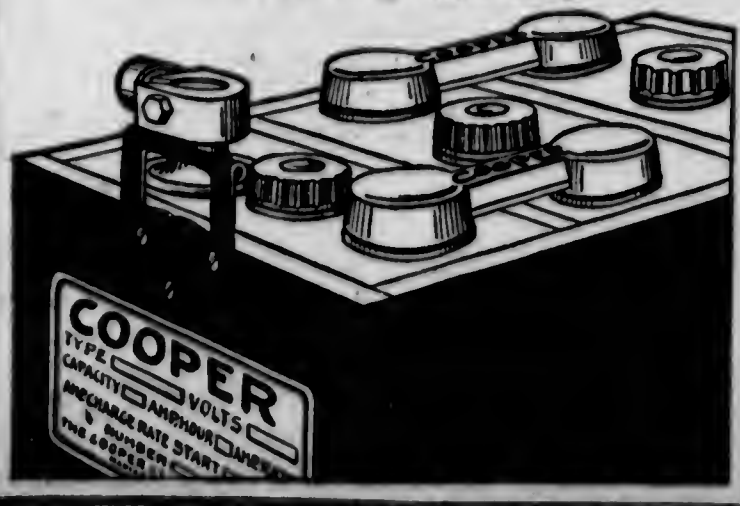

The purpose of the separator of a battery is to act as an insulator between the plates. The Port Orford Cedar Separator used in the Cooper Battery offers greater resistance to the action of the electrolyte and the natural wear and tear due to friction between the plates, which is caused by the continuous jarring and vibrating of the automobile.

Our special process for treating Port Orford Cedar Separator eliminates all injurious substances and still retains the natural texture and firmness of the wood.

Before you buy your next Battery, stop at our Service Station and let us show you how the Cooper Battery is constructed, and explain the guarantee under which it is sold.

Get the Hen House Ready For Winter

"I don't know whether it's a Ben Davis or a Baldwin" said a farmer in the eastern part of the State when asked what kind of poultry house he had. This condition prevails on entirely too many farms throughout the State. The old saying that any old place is good enough for the chickens has become a thing of the past.

If the old apple tree is not used some shed on the place is used for the chickens. Neither of these are of any avail as far as getting the best of production. In the case of the apple tree the birds are given no protection from the weather whatever. In the case of the shed one of two kinds is generally found. One of these will be a house with very few if any windows. Those having windows will generally have all the glass broken and have cracks in the place of glass. The other kind usually has no windows whatever and cracks on every side of the house. One can readily see that neither of these houses afford conditions suitable for a laying flock. Where the windows are stuffed with gunny sacks the birds get no fresh air except when the door is opened at feeding times. The birds will be huddled together on the roosts most of the day because it is too dark in the house for them to see. The house is damp and the roof covered with frost due to a lack of sun-light or ventilation.

A very similar condition is found in the other house in regard to the activity of the birds. In place of no ventilation the house is flooded with drafts which cause a great deal of disease and other trouble. In both cases one will find a large number of birds with bad colds and roup. In neither case will there be many eggs produced during the winter months.

If the reader of this article belongs to the class of those mentioned above he will find it advantageous from the standpoint of production and health of the birds to give them proper housing. By proper housing is meant a house which has plenty of sunlight and ventilation.

or plays come in a natural sequence, employing only at first only the primary colors, red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet.

The whole secret of home education for little children is for the mother to meet awakening instincts and powers with play supplies and play suggestions. "The A. B. C. of things," says Froebel, "must precede the A. B. C. of words." Nothing the little child is carrying is beyond his mother's experience. To meet his needs she has only to get his viewpoint and travel with him the road of investigation and appreciation of the interesting world about him.

It is all right for a girl to throw her hips out of joint and then throw them back in again when she is dancing the Maxixe or a new-fangled Tango. But there was a time when we used to think it real devilish to pay a dime and go in and watch a Hootchie dancer.

Play Lessons For Little Children

When the older children of the home and neighborhood go back to school in the autumn, the mother is often taxed to find occupations which will fill in the gap for the active two, three or four-year-old who misses their companionship. This is just the time to delight his heart and satisfy his unconscious desires and needs by starting him on a set of simple play lessons. For these the mother needs no elaborate materials or schoolroom training. She can find in her own home and experience both the tools and the skill for their use.

Every mother lives over with her children the experience of each human being in discovering and adapting himself to the world about him. Let her pause and take thought of a few of the common facts with which her child must become familiar. One is an appreciation of the relative sizes of things. Think how you would feel if you had never consciously entertained the idea of size and it suddenly dawned upon you one day that two objects which had seemed alike yet vaguely unlike, differed in that one was slightly larger than the other. You would have a new testing rod with which to try out the world. Give a child that idea with a nest of boxes, with a set of books graded by sizes, with blocks, with spools, with tin pans. Any set of objects in series will be the materials for a group of play lessons for which the words "large" and "larger," "small" and "smaller" are the keys.

Along with size come length and height. Following size comes shape, taught most easily by sorting out all the blocks of a kind or all the beads of a kind from the usual boxes of blocks and wooden beads which are to be found among the playthings of most children. They all love to pick out shapes by touch, finding in a group of objects hidden under an apron in the mother's lap the twin of an object they hold in their hands, then, when they have the idea, doing the same from piles of their own making. They are interested in likeness and differences. This interest is, indeed, at the bottom of most play suggestions for little children. Through it we start the child on the training of his sensibilities. In discovering differences and noting them and in performing operations which make note of them through touch or sight, the third is developing these powers which are at the moment awaiting development.

Other plays with duplicate spools or blocks introduce the idea of matching things, selecting one and finding its twin. Then we come to sorting and here are opportunities for a variety of plays. Mix from

Change in Method Of Curing Tobacco

In the annual report of the Kentucky Experiment Station which is just off the press, Director Thomas Cooper writes: "For several years past the Experiment Station has been attempting to determine a method of curing burley tobacco by artificial heat. Enough work has been completed to show that as high grade of leaf can be obtained by flue-curing at a relatively low temperature as by air curing, thus eliminating completely the danger of house burning.

With the increasing importance of the burley tobacco industry, it is probable that the use of artificial heat may be advantageously resorted to more generally. This would hold true especially in seasons when climatic conditions are unfavorable for curing.

During the past year, curing experiments were conducted with dark tobacco as grown in Western Kentucky. Export tobaccos of this region are open-fire-cured giving them a strong flavor of creosote. The growing scarcity of wood in many regions is making the curing process very expensive and in time it will be almost impossible to secure the necessary supplies of wood at a reasonable figure. The experiments at the Experiment Station were designed to determine the possibility of accomplishing results equivalent to those obtained by open wood firing by a combination of flue-curing and smoking with wood smoke. The heat in flue-curing is furnished by any kind of fuel. In appearance the tobacco cured by this process is equal to open-fire-cured in all respects but does not have quite so pronounced an odor of smoke. This experiment is to be continued. It is not known how the buyers will value the leaf cured in this way.

Thank the Lord for prosperity. It helps you to pay the bills, and if the bills don't take all the prosperity from you, it won't be the fault of the bill collector.

If You Were a Tire Dealer What Would You Do?

WOULD you sell shoddy tires on which you make a large profit with each sale? Would you sell tires with a limited guarantee?

Would you sell some brand of tires whose worth was not established?

NO, YOU WOULDN'T—You wouldn't risk losing your reputation. You would probably do as we are doing. We are selling Goodyear Tires because our customers come back again. They're satisfied.

Let us show you our complete line of GOODYEAR Clincher tires for Ford, Chevrolet, Maxwell, Overland, and other light cars.
